REPORT

on Sarah Angel, an Orphan at Echoes of Mercy Christian School

Sarah Angel is a brave and determined girl currently in grade two at Echoes of Mercy Christian School. She joined the school last year after experiencing a series of tragic events that deeply affected her life. Sarah's mother was tragically knocked down by a vehicle while out searching for the daily bread to feed her children. This heartbreaking incident left Sarah and her two siblings orphaned and in a state of distress. Fortunately, Echoes of Mercy Christian School and the Mission Home offered them a safe haven, and Sarah has since been living there, receiving love, care, and education.

A year after losing her mother, Sarah faced another devastating loss, the death of her brother, Shadrack Juma. This loss was very painful for Sarah; she felt a deep sense of sadness and loneliness. The passing of her brother made her feel vulnerable and increased her longing for a caring family and a stable home. Despite these hardships, Sarah has shown remarkable resilience.

Sarah aspires to become a nurse one day. She believes that pursuing this career will not only bring her personal achievement but will also be a great contribution to her community. She dreams of caring for others and making a difference in people's lives, just as she has been supported by Echoes of Mercy Mission. Her academic performance has been splendidly rising, reflecting her determination and commitment to her goals.

Currently, Sarah does not have any responsible relatives to take care of her or a permanent home. Her home is now the Echoes of Mercy Mission Home, where she has been shown unconditional love and mercy. With the ongoing support from the school.

Sarah remains hopeful and motivated. She is determined to work hard and achieve her dream of becoming a nurse, believing that this will enable her to give back to her community and help others in need.
